SATURDAY, MAY 6, 1876.
THE VILLAGE COUNCIL.

The Regular Meeting Monday Night
A Full Board Present.
Lamps-Petition for New Streets- Treasurer's and Marshal's Re- ports-Accounts Allowed, &c.

The regular monthly meeting of the village council took place last Monday night. The meeting was called to order by President Newton, and the roll showed that Trustees Kezar, Crumley, Stevenson, McGinn, McGuire and McDonald, a full board present, also Recorder Airth, and Village Attorney Brown.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.
Mr. Crane, the contractor for lighting the street lamps, stated that owing to his employer's intention to cease business, and not knowing whether or not he could get other employment in the village, he would like to be released from his contract. The propriety of selling the lamps to private parties was advocated by some of the members. Upon motion a vote was taken as to whether they should be lighted by the village or sold, with the following result:

In favor of lighting—Trustees Kezar, Crumley, Stevenson and McGuire.
For selling—Trustees McGinn and Mc-Donald.

The President then informed Mr.
Crane that the village would hold him to his contract.

President Newton recommended that an ordinance be drafted making the village taxes payable in October.

Upon motion of Trustee Kezar, seconded by Crumley, the Village Attorney, was instructed to draft an ordinance in accordance with the recommendation.

The appointment of Street Commissioner was the next business that came before the meeting. There were three applicants for the position, J. E. Nichols, M. W. Horne and David Farrell. Upon motion of Trustee Crumley, David Farrell was unanimously elected, and his salary was fixed at $2 50 per day for actual service, and his bond at $2,500, with two sureties.

It was decided, upon motion, that those parties assessed for building the Division street sewer who were willing to pay the assessment but could not do so now should be allowed thirty days by giving their notes with interest, and that the Marshal proceed to collect from those who refuse to pay, according to law.

William Divine presented a receipt for $25 paid by Divine & Allair as license for keeping livery stable, and asked that the amount be refunded. A motion not to refund was adopted.

L. Backus presented a petition setting forth a claim from exemption from the payment of the assessment for building the Division street sewer on the ground that the village had made use of a sewer, put down at its individual expense, for draining portions of Main, Huron and Dresser streets, and for which they had allowed no compensation, and he thought that it was not more than right that he should have matters evened up.

Referred to Committee on Streets.
Trustee Kezar, from Finance Committee reported that they had examined the Treasurer's report and found it to be correct. The report was read, with the following showing:

Total receipts	$3,044 74
Disbursements	2,414 48
Balance in Treasury	$630 26

Upon motion, the report was received.
The reports of Wm. Mulvaugh and James N. Riley, showing the amount of village taxes collected to be as follows:

Highway	$4 28
General	1,290 65
	$1,294 93

UNCOLLECTED.

General	214 63
	$217 15

A motion was made that the report and tax roll be handed over to the Village Marshal with instructions to see what could be done towards collecting the delinquent tax, but the Village Attorney being asked his opinion as to whether the council could again extend the time for the collection of the village tax, the former extension having ended the first of April, gave his opinion that there was nothing in the charter to prevent, whereupon the motion of Trustee McGinn, the time for collecting the taxes was extended to July 1st.

The Committee on Fire department reported that they had found a number of stove-pipes not properly protected projecting through roofs, and had ordered the same to be attended to.

A petition was presented from Chas.
Bellant and others for the opening of a street on the town line between Duncan township and this village, running north to intersect Fulton street in Chas. Bel-lant's addition to the village. On motion of Trustee McGinn, the petition was granted, provided the property owners would dedicate the necessary land for that purpose.

A petition from McArthur, Smith & Co. and others, asking to have a sidewalk constructed on the north side of Black River street, from the west side of Huron street to the corporation line. Referred to the Committee on streets to see whether the petitioners owned the land fronting where the walk was to be built.

A petition from Chas. DeCunliffe and others, asking for the discontinuance of so much of the Alpena state road as was within the village in the s. w. quarter of s. w. quarter of section 32, town 38. Laid over until next meeting.

The following accounts were allowed and ordered paid:

Joe Long	$5 00
Ferry & Watson	3 15
Free Press	2 10
H. A. Field	1 00
A. F. Newton	23 25
James Riley	28 25
S. Stevenson	25 00

The subject of making arrangements for the village printing was brought up by the President, who stated that Mr.
Robinson had been allowed $30 per year for the official printing. Mr. James J.
Brown, of the Free Press, said they would do the printing for the same amount.

Upon motion it was decided that the Free Press have the printing at that amount per annum.
Upon motion the Board adjourned.

The Trials of the St. Joseph.
The St. Joseph was due here Thursday evening. There was a large field of ice in the straits at the entrance of the harbor, but no one supposed that there would be any difficulty in the boat getting through. Several of our citizens had friends aboard and waited until a late hour thinking that she might pull through, but as the midnight hour drew on they deserted their watch one by one and repaired to their homes. When morning came the vessel was seen in the ice, apparently almost through, but as the hours wore on, it could be plainly seen that she was making no headway.

About ten o'clock the tug Minter went out to the ice on a prospecting expedition, and on her return brought off quite a number of passengers. Soon afterward the tug Eliza Williams steamed up and went to the assistance of the propeller, and going around the field of ice, followed in the channel cut and assisted her in backing out and turning around.
When she went around the ice and came up to the dock about three o'clock. She had on board a number of passengers and a large quantity of freight for this place.
It was said by those who went out, that the ice was from three to five feet thick.
Masses of ice piled and frozen together.

The Marquette & Mackinaw Railroad.

Knowing that our citizens are extremely anxious to keep informed of the prospects of this road, the editor of this journal, while in attendance upon the meeting of the Board of Control last week, took considerable pains to ascertain the actual condition of affairs. To say that the prospects are favorable would be assuring too much; still the situation has some encouraging features.

After the company to whom the contract had been let failed to come to time, as stated in the TRIBUNE some weeks since, the old Marquette company, by telegram, offered to take the contract upon the basis of their original bid. This proposition is still in force, and was the one considered by the Board. The company had a representative at the meeting, who seemed very anxious to have the Board take favorable action upon their proposition. There was considerable difference between the wishes of the company and the Board regarding the nature of the guarantee bonds to be given. Owing to the absence of the Governor no action was taken; but the Board adjourned to meet on the 8th, in Detroit, should there be any chance of harmonizing the views of the company and Board. Should the company come to the terms exacted by the Board, the contract will probably be let at that time and all the necessary papers signed. Should this not be the case, it would seem hardly probable that anything will be accomplished this session.

More Improvements.
Since the return, some weeks ago, of Mr. Jerome Leavitt, who has charge of McArthur, Smith & Co's large mill, that establishment has been undergoing considerable improvements looking towards an increase of the working capacity of the mill. The carriage of one of the circular saws has been considerably lengthened, making an addition to the mill necessary. This is to enable them to saw trunk longer logs. An elevated railway has also been constructed for the purpose of conveying the slabs to the lath mill.
This will be a great convenience as well as a saving of labor. Another edger has been added to the machinery, besides quite a number of minor improvements.
Mr. Leavitt now thinks that he will be ready to start up, a week from next Monday.

A Card.
To the Editor of the NORTHERN TRIBUNE.
Mr. and Mrs. Riccoley wish to thank their kind friends and neighbors for their efforts to relieve them in their affliction.
Mr. Riccoley feels that he has kind friends and that he will not suffer until he is able again to resume work. Mr. Riccoley is fast recovering from the injuries received while at work on McArthur, Smith & Co's railway.
MARGARET A. RICHARDSON.

How He Took a Sweat.
He had taken what he called "advance code" in his head. He had a sore throat; his head ached; his bones ached; he was sure he was going to be sick, and he told it all over to his wife in such a pitiful way, and while into a chair so helplessly that she became alarmed immediately.

She said he should take a good sweat and go to bed. He demurred, and said he didn't want any sweat. She said he did, and must have one, and at once bringing along an old cane seat chair, made him prepare himself to take a sweat. After a deal of coaxing, and a little authority mixed in, she at last got him fixed in the chair. Then she got all the quilts in the house, and wrapped them around him and over him, chair and all, until at last he was sure he would be smothered for want of air to breathe.

Then she got an old oyster can and put some alcohol in it. Then she raised the wood shed for a block of wood, which being found she placed on the floor under his chair. Then she set the alcohol on that, and she said afterwards that she thought perhaps it was too near the bottom of the chair, but she guessed it would do. Then she lighted a match and set the alcohol on fire.

"O—oh!" said he, and the quilts began to tremble and quake "not but the quaking of mount Vesuvius just before an eruption. "I don't want a sweat. I don't want a sweat. I want to go to bed," and he started on a run, dragging the chair after him, and stringing the quilts from there all the way up stairs; while she—his wife—whose heart ought to have been so full of pity, sat down in a chair and laughed and laughed again until tears came in her eyes, at sight of his mummy like figure as he dashed on from her sight.

He has recovered from that cold, and says he is sure he don't want to take another sweat in that manner again.

A Narrow Escape.
A few days since George Wilson ran a narrow escape from drowning. He was engaged, with four others, in breaking a jam in Mattoon's drive on Pigeon river, and upon the jam giving way they were all precipitated into the river. Mr. Wilson was the only one among them who could not swim, and thus being unable to help himself very much, he went down twice before he was rescued. The call was about as close as Mr. Wilson desires to experience.

MEET ME.
BY R. D.
"Ah," said he, as I was passing him in the street, "good morning," taking me by the arm and turning me around, "I want to walk with you a little way. I am in a hurry, and cannot stop long enough to talk much, so come along and we will talk as we go."

Although I was in something of a hurry myself, I could not resist his pressing invitation given in such a winning way.
Said he, "what do you suppose I was thinking of as you came up? I'll tell you. I was thinking of my boyhood days. This pleasant spring morning, the scenes and sounds about me bring them all back so fresh. Even the cawing of the crow sitting on yonder fence, the singing of the birds in the fields around us, the lowing of yonder cow, the cackling of the hens, cause me to go back to my boyhood days, and I live over again those times gone, never to return. "Oh," said he, "what a long winter we have had. I am glad it is over, and glad that in good health I can walk here and enjoy this beautiful spring morning. Do you know that I have an idea that we who have such long winters can enjoy these spring days to their fullest extent, and that we experience a deal more of pleasure on such a morning as this than those who live where the winters are not more than half as long? Hark, do you hear that sound? It is the whistle of a Northern boat. Next I have no idea what a pleasant sound that is to me. It was one of those boats that brought me to this part of the world, and it was one of those boats that carried me back and forth, whenever I went from here or returned.
I have been so much on them that I know the sound of their whistles whenever I hear them, be it night or day. And the sight of them coming into port or clearing out is a splendid one. How smart and pert they get around, and they seem to go and come as if they meant business. Their very movement on the water seems to say 'business' almost as plain as words can speak it."

He talked on as we walked, in such a good natured way, that I involuntarily began to feel as he said he did, and I wondered if he was always so. He had a smile and a pleasant "good morning" for everybody he met, and seemed to be glad and under the impression that all were as happy as he was.

I do not know when I have seen him any different. Always when I have met him he seemed happy, and to wish to make others happy like himself. He never seems in the least put out at any time, is always looking on the bright side. I never saw him when anything was going wrong. He always has an excuse for the mistakes of others, and never "kicks a man when he is down."

He is always ready to help the unfortunate, and is always pleased at the success of others, and even expresses a regret when he learns of the failure of his neighbor in business. He is always distinct in business, and thus far in life has been most successful. I wish there were more like him.

Near Iowa Falls, a Mrs. Sarah Cullum, 81 years of age, and the widow of a soldier of the war of 1812, has just discovered that she is entitled to a pension. She was married in 1810, became a mother in 1811, lost her husband in 1812, read newspapers for 64 years, and yet had never heard of bounties, pensions or "back pay!"

The greatest freshest ever known was at Stevens Point, Wis. The log jam at Point Creek broke, one day last week and rushed out, carrying away the mills.
A large part of the logs were caught in the boom at Chippewa, and the latter had to be cut to save the works. While engaged in the work four men were drowned.

Two sons of Erin, shoveling on a hot day, stopped to rest, and exchanged views on the labor question. "Pat, this is mighty hard work we're at." "It is, indeed, Jimmy; but what kind of work is it you'd like if you could get it?"
"Well," said the other, leaning reflectively upon his shovel, and wiping the perspiration with the back of his hand, "for a nice, easy, clause business, I think I would like to be a bishop."

Twice already the Centennial buildings have been in danger from fire, and in the case of the roof of Agricultural Hall, a coal from a tinner's furnace on the roof, fanned by a high wind, endangered the destruction of the building, and goods to the value of $1,000,000. The preparations made and the efficiency of the discipline were sufficient for the emergency, and the test has produced a greater feeling of security.

A collection of the coats of arms of all the states of the Union is being made by the chief of the historical department of the Centennial. Application was made to the Governors and Legislatures of the different states for official copies, many of which have been furnished. The singular fact has been developed that no state insignia have been fixed by statute, and the designs now used to represent them have depended very much on the fancy of individuals.
